

SAS H20

History of the Holocaust Literature

Required Reading

Yehuda Bauer, History of the Holocaust (rev), New York: Franklin Watts, 2001 (432p)

Scholarly work on the Holocaust (one of the following)

Raul Hilberg, The Destruction of the European Jews (student edition), New Haven, Conn.: Yale University Press, 2003 (360p)

Christopher Browning, Ordinary Men, London: Penguin, 2001 (271p)

Daniel Goldhagen, Hitler's willing executioners, London: Abacus, 1997 (634p)

Note: There exist several editions of the above mentioned works. Page count may vary from edition to edition.

Literary work on the Holocaust (one of the following)

Primo Levi, The Drowned and the Saved, London: Joseph, 1988 (192p)

Imre Kertész, Kaddish for a Child not Born, Evanston, Ill.: Hydra Books, 1997 (95p)

Leon Uris, Mila 18, London: Corgi Books, 1990 (478p)

Note: There exist several editions of the above mentioned works. Page count may vary from edition to edition.